

The missing Prince

Written by :

---

Bouvier Mathéa

Marlot Anouk

Moré Athénaïs

Once upon a time, a princess was named Daisy. Daisy had long red hair with big blue eyes. She was rebel but respected by her people. She lived with her parents and her brother in a big kingdom. Her parents were selfish and bossy. The poor princess was misunderstood by her parents.

One day her brother disappeared. She decided to investigate. She started to ask her parents for a piece of information. But they didn't know anything. At that time she went to the library. She looked for information for a whole day, when suddenly...

One day, she discovered a book. On the first page she saw the photo of a witch. She recognized her. In the book there was an address, so she took it to visit her. But first she looked at her description. It was written that this witch turned people into all kinds of animals. But she was not afraid. So she asked her parents a lot of informations to go there on the next day. But her mother refused to speak because Daisy had to do the housework. The next morning, despite her parents decision. She left anyway. On her way she met a young man, they became friends very easily. He explained to her that he was an orphan. He had lost his mother. She had disappeared. Daisy told him what was going on. He decided to accompany her because he had nothing else to do. He was named Peter. They walked for hours.

Daisy and Peter arrived at the witch's home. In the house there was nobody. « Anybody home ? » and ...BOOOM.... The witch appeared in front of them. They were very frightened. Peter recognized the witch. It was his mother and was named Berthonia, but she didn't recognize her son. She asked them their first names. They answered « Daisy and Peter ». At this moment only, the witch recognized her son. But the witch didn't have a heart and so she rejected her son. Behind Berthonia there was a dragon. Daisy recognized him : this dragon was in a magic book. Daisy succeeded to untie them. She ran towards the magic book and she found an antidote. Very quickly they prepared the antidote. Peter had chained the witch. Daisy gave the antidote to the dragon and he transformed himself into a charming prince. Daisy was very happy. Berthonia explained why she was wicked as a witch : she had a trauma in her childhood and that's why she was bad. While listening to her, Daisy was very affected by this history. She prepared a cake for Berthonia and they lived a long time and never had babies.

THE END